Bangkok, 23rd March, 1887. Messrs. R. S. Wright and Frank Safford appeared in our issue of the 18th ult. The other opinions by Counsel, given below, have not yet been published in our columns.—ED.

[After discussing at length the acts an orders relating to Consular fees continues. "I am therefore of opinion that the intended levy of a fee of two ticals annually from British residents in Slain by the British Consular authorities in Bangkok is not an act authorized by law, and I am of opinion that the British Consul in levying or attempting to levy a fee on British residents exceeds the power vested in him by section 1 of the Order in Council of 1856. * • • Under the similar Order (The China and Japan Order in Council, 1865) establishing trial by jury in those countries special power is given for levying and enforcing payment of fees for registration of British residents. * * * But no such power has been given to the Consul in Siam. There is therefore no relation between China and Siam in this matter, and the intention of the framers of the Siamese Order of last year is, in my opinion, made clear from this fact as having been to the effect that the existing

The Birmingham Gazette publishes the following letter which has been addressed by Mr. Ruskin to a Cumberland gentleman who had communicated with him respecting the Ambleside Railway project,-"Brantwood, Coniston, Lancashire, March 1, 1887. My dear Sir,-I do not write now further concerning railroads here or elsewhere. They are to me the loathsomest · form of devilry new extant, animated and deliberate earthquakes, destructive of all wise social habit or possible natural beauty, carriages of damned souls on the ridges of their own graves. Ever faithfully yours, John Ruskin."

Cantain Rook, alarmed at the appearance of grey hairs in his black beard, and having heard that M. Chevroul had lived to see his 100th hirthday by eating and drinking only fish and water, resolved to subject himself to a similar distary. Two days after the captain's decision was taken, his friend Major - met him at the club and at once asked him how he felt under the new regine. "How do I feel ?" echoed the gallant captain; "why I felt after two days of it that if I went on with that confounded 'Chevreal system. I should have completed my hundredth year by the end of next week. Come and split a whisky and potash, old fellow."

A good story is told of an interview of the governor of a certain prison with one of the prisoners. Some of the prisoners were at work lathing a room during a recent official visit of the gevernor, and the latter was inspecting the progress of the work. After contemplating the process for a few minutes, the governor remarked, "See here, my man, you are, laying those laths too near together; that sort of work will never do." The prisoner, calmly laid down his tools and said, "Governor, I am willing to be turned off and discharged if my work don't suit. I never applied for this job or the situation; if my work isn't satisfactory, I am willing to go."

While on a visit Force of wind to a friend, I noticed a stout and stalwart form walk into the room. His hair was sprinkled with silver; his open and manly conntonance bore the impress of thoughtful anxiety. He seemed to feel embarrassed at my unexpected presence, and would not take a seat: but bidding adieu with the customary "Ham, Kam." hastily retreated from the room. I was wondering who the man could be, when my friend whispered to me, it was Dhulip Singh, the chief of the Sikhs. He is living incognito, though his presence in Paris is well known to

The typograph displays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond in the siz of body, thereby effecting a vast economy of space, achieving a clearness not previously attained, and dispensing with those vast margin and vacant spaces which have heretofore characterized Chinese publications. To the illustrate the vast scope of the word following facts are submitted for consideration:—Chalmers' Vocabulary contains about 16,000 Chinese characters, and Medhurst's English and Chinese Dictionary about 100,000, while this work contains more than 50,000 English words, and upwards of 600,000 Chinese characters. Again, despite all the grammars and other elementary works as yet published, the student of this difficult language absolutely requires examples to display the various applications and equivalents of different words which have one general meaning. Of these example this work contains more than five times a many as any other Dictionary hitherto published. For practical purposes the arrangement of the work is so complete, that a reference to it pages enables a person who understands English to communicate effectively with natives who understand nothing but Chinese. WITH THE PUNTI AND MANDARIN PRONUNCIATION. An Anglo-Chinese Dictionary, published at the Daily Press Office, Hongkong. For comprehensiveness and practical service this Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have of late years been compelled to coin to express the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extense. Each and every word if fully illustrated and explained, forming exercise for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are given the accents being carefully marked on the besprinciple hitherto attained. The typography displays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond in the six of body, thereby effecting a vast economy of space, achieving a clearness not previously attained, and dispensing with those vast margin and vacant spaces which have heretofore characterized Chinese publications. To the illustrate the vast scope of the word following facts are submitted for consideration: Chalmers' Vocabulary contains about 16,00 Chinese characters, and Medhurst's English and Chinese Dictionary about 100,000, while this work contains more than 50,000 English words, and upwards of 600,000 Chinese characters. Again, despite all the grammars and the elementary works as yet published, the student of this difficult language absolutely requires examples to display the various applications and equivalents of different words which have one general meaning. Of these example this work contains more than five lines a many as any other Dictionary hitherto published. For practical purposes the arrangement of the work is so complete, that a reference to it pages enables a person who understands English to communicate effectively with natives when the work will be found indispensable to a many se any other Dictionary hitherto published.
